

A narrow, colorful street in Havana, Cuba, with people walking and a red car. The street is lined with multi-story buildings in various colors like yellow, green, and blue. A young man in a black t-shirt and light shorts stands on the left. In the center, a red car is parked, and several people are walking, some pushing carts. A sign on the left wall reads "SE VENDE ESTA CASA".

LAH 3930: History of Cuba
Tues/Thurs, spring 2022
Professor Anasa Hicks

Cuba is just 90 miles away from U.S. soil, but politically, it's always been much closer. Register to find out why.